Graduates and guests led by
Lauren Ann Broglia
Class of 1987

Oh! come let's sing Ohio's praise,
And songs to Alma Mater raise;
While our hearts rebounding thrill,
With joy which death alone can still.
Summer's heat and Winter's cold,
The seasons pass, the years will roll;
Time and change will surely show
How firm thy friendship—Ohio.

Commencement Speaker

Henry Ponder

Henry Ponder, president of Fisk University in Nashville, graduated from Ohio State in 1963 with a doctoral degree in agricultural economics. He also holds a master's degree from Oklahoma State University and a bachelor's degree from Langston University.

Before assuming the presidency at Fisk, he was president of Benedict College in Columbia, South Carolina. His other academic positions include vice president for academic affairs and dean of the college, Alabama A & M University; chairperson, Department of Business and Economics, Fort Valley State College, Georgia; and chairperson, Department of Agribusiness, Virginia State College, Virginia.

Ponder has served as an economic consultant to the Irving Trust Company of New York City. His business experience also includes work with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York's Department of Banking Studies, the Philadelphia National Bank, the Omaha National Bank, the U.S. Department of Treasury, and the Chase Manhattan Bank.

He is involved with numerous civic organizations, among them the Better Business Bureau, the Nashville Chamber of Commerce, the Tennessee Repertory Theatre, the YMCA, the Nashville Institute for the Arts, the United Way of Middle Tennessee, the Martin Luther King Jr. Health Science Magnet School, and the Bishop Desmond Tutu Southern African Refugee Scholarship Fund.

He has been listed in several directories of prominent individuals such as Who's Who Among Black Americans, Community Leaders of America, Men of Achievement, Directory of Distinguished Americans, International Who's Who of Intellectuals, and The Book of Honor. Among his many awards are three Distinguished Alumnus Awards—one from each of the colleges that awarded him degrees. In 1986 he was named as one of the 100 most effective college presidents in the United States, according to a Bowling Green research survey. In June of this year, Ponder was a recipient of the President's 300th Commencement Award from Ohio State. We congratulate him for his accomplishment, and we welcome him back as speaker for the University's 302nd commencement.

Recipients of Honors

Josephine Sitterle Failer Doctor of Humanities

Since graduating from Ohio State in 1939 with a bachelor's degree in pharmacy, Josephine Sitterle Failer has been a dedicated supporter of the University. Deeply interested in Ohio State students, she has served in a variety of leadership capacities and has given countless hours of volunteer time to numerous projects throughout the last half century.

Within the College of Pharmacy, she established a student loan fund for pharmacy students, organized many college events, provided leadership for fund-raising efforts, and has held several volunteer leadership positions. Failer has also been very involved in Ohio State's Alumni Association and has been a member of the organization's board of directors and reunion committees.

She has been very active in other University organizations such as Friends of the Library of The Ohio State University, Friends of WOSU, and Program 60, through which people 60 years and older enroll in University classes.

A donor every year since the founding of The Ohio State University Development Fund in 1939, Failer has shared both her time and resources with the University; she became a member of The Presidents Club in 1965, has been a member of the club's executive committee, and has been a leader in numerous other fund-raising projects as well.

Her previous awards from the University include a Distinguished Service Award, the Alumni Centennial Award, the Centennial Service Award, the Ralph D. Mershon Alumni Award, and the Everett D. Reese Medal. The University is pleased to honor this dedicated and distinguished alumna.

Ann Hutchinson Guest Doctor of Humanities

Ann Hutchinson Guest is regarded internationally as the senior expert in the field of Labanotation, a system of dance notation that uses symbols to indicate very specific movement. Labanotation allows entire dance works to be recorded on paper in a manner that is, according to Guest, somewhat comparable to music notation.

Guest has been a proponent of the idea that dance should have libraries of written works which, like music scores, would accurately preserve great works of art for future study and performance. She has resurrected historical dances that previously existed only in period writings, and it is largely through her efforts that Labanotation has gained acceptance throughout the world. As a dance scholar and historian, she has studied 24 old and contemporary systems of dance notation—she is fluent in five methods of notation. She is, in addition, the author of the standard text of the Laban system of notation.

Guest was born in New York City, and her education includes work at Cambridge University in England and the Joss-Leeder Dance School, where she studied modern dance and Labanotation. Subsequently, she danced professionally for eight years in modern dance concerts and Broadway shows.

She was one of the founding faculty members of the High School of Performing Arts in New York City and the Department of Dance at the Juilliard School, where she taught for 10 years. She was among the notation experts who set up the Dance Notation Bureau in New York in 1940, and in 1962, she founded the Language of Dance Centre in London, which she heads today. She was also instrumental in establishing the Labanotation Institute at the University of Surrey in 1985. Her original research continues to be the major influence affecting the development of the notation of human movement, and her writings form the basis for the study of this discipline in higher education. The University proudly confers this award on her for her lifetime of accomplishment and distinguished contributions to the world of dance.

Recipients of Honors

Janet Taylor Spence Doctor of Science

Janet Taylor Spence is a distinguished scholar who has made important contributions to the body of primary research literature in psychology. The impact of her doctoral dissertation has been monumental in its effect on research in personality theory, motivation, learning, and psychopathology. Her dissertation was, for many years, one of the most widely cited articles in psychological literature. Much of her later work has focused on achievement and motivation and on gender roles.

Spence holds a bachelor's degree from Oberlin College and master's and doctoral degrees from the State University of Iowa. She has worked at several institutions, including Harvard, Yale, Northwestern, Iowa, and the University of Texas, where she has served as department chairperson and is currently a member of the faculty.

She is among the most productive scholars in her field; she has written or co-written more than 100 articles and over 20 books and book chapters. She has also been very involved with professional organizations—she has been elected president of the American Psychological Association and has served in several leadership capacities in other organizations, including the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Psychonomic Society, the Southwestern Psychological Association, and the Society of Experimental Social Psychology.

Her professional activities also include service as trustee, the James McKeen Cattell Foundation; as chair, visiting committee to the Harvard University Department of Psychology and Social Relations; as a member on the editorial committee of the Annual Review of Psychology; as a member on the board of governors, Center for Creative Leadership; and as a member on the advisory committee, Hogg Foundation for Mental Health. Ohio State is proud to honor her for her valuable contributions to her profession and to society.

Paolo Emilio Taviani Doctor of Humane Letters

Paolo Emilio Taviani, a leader of the Italian Resistance during World War II, has been a major intellectual presence in Italian academic and political life for over 40 years. Currently a senator in the Italian government, Taviani is one of a few living parliamentarians who has held an elected seat in Italy without interruption from 1945 to the present.

Born in Genoa, he holds doctoral degrees in jurisprudence, in social sciences, and in letters and philosophy. After college he began a teaching career in law and political science and later taught economics and history. He is a prolific and renowned scholar—he has published more than 20 books and dozens of reviews and articles on subjects related to the social sciences. He produced two exhaustive studies of Christopher Columbus' life and voyages, which have brought him international recognition as the greatest living authority on Columbus.

In addition to his distinguished academic career, Taviani has been a central participant in much of the social and economic history of Italy and western Europe. In 1943, during the German occupation of Italy, he helped form the National Committee for the Liberation of Liguria and served clandestinely as a partisan commander in the Resistance—actions for which he was much decorated. Also in 1943, he helped create the Christian Democrat Party. He was among the founders of the Italian Republic and a deputy to the Constitutional Committee.

After the war, he resumed his academic work and also began a career in the Italian political arena. He has served in numerous governmental capacities, including national vice secretary and national secretary of the Christian Democrat Party, representative to Parliament, senator of the Republic, chairman of the Senate foreign affairs committee, and he has held several cabinet positions. Ohio State is proud to honor him for his achievement, his leadership, and his contributions to twentieth-century civilization.

Recipients of Honors

C. K. Tseng Doctor of Science

C. K. Tseng is a distinguished international professor, scholar, and humanitarian, as well as a pioneer and leader in both basic and applied aspects of the aquatic sciences in the People's Republic of China. An expert in the study of algae, he received his doctorate from the University of Michigan in 1942 and is director emeritus of the Institute of Oceanology, Tsingtao, China.

Tseng's advanced professional training in the midwestern United States and subsequently at Scripps Institute of Oceanography has been a prelude to a life of leadership, service, and innovation within his country. His influence and activities have extended well beyond the boundaries of China and have been instrumental in re-establishing east-west relations; his work has fostered extensive international exchanges between scientific communities in both hemispheres.

During his career he has chaired the departments of Botany and Fisheries at Shandong University, China, and co-founded the Institute of Oceanology. He developed techniques for the successful cultivation of two economically important seaweeds, making China a leading world producer of these plants. He and his students are responsible for some of the earliest work in applying modern biotechnology to the study of marine organisms and to the genetic improvement of commercial seaweed stocks.

Since the end of the Cultural Revolution, Tseng has orchestrated events that have brought researchers and scholars together from all over the world. He has been the key figure in the successful development of relationships between aquatic scientists of China and the western world and a model for scientists in other fields to follow. The University congratulates him for his immense contributions to the world of science.

The Academic Costume

The colorful ceremonies of The Ohio State University Commencements derive from practices originating in the Middle Ages. When European universities were taking form in the 12th and 13th centuries, the scholars were usually clerics, and consequently they adopted costumes similar to those of their monastic orders. Cold halls and drafty buildings called for caps and floor-length capes with attached hoods, and the sobering influence of the church probably influenced the staid character of the caps and gowns.

As the control of the universities gradually passed from the church, some aspects of the costumes took on brighter hues. Old prints and engravings, however, reveal a strong similarity between the regalia worn in early universities and that of the present day.

In light of our nation's English heritage, academic costume has been in use in the United States since colonial times. To establish a standard of uniformity in regard to the practice, an inter-collegiate commission was formed to prepare a code for caps, gowns, and hoods that has since been adopted by all academic institutions.

Originally round, the shape of the cap is now the familiar mortarboard square—a shape which, according to ballad folklore, resembles a scholar's book. Legend also has it that the privilege of wearing a cap was the initial right of a freed Roman slave; the academic cap, therefore, has become a sign of the freedom of scholarship. The flowing gown has become symbolic of the democracy of scholarship for it covers any dress that might indicate rank or social status. The hood, reserved at The Ohio State University for those receiving doctoral degrees, not only indicates the type of degree, but also is lined with the official colors of the University.

The Gown

Bachelor. Black, full cut with long pointed sleeves.

Master. Black, long or short sleeves with a reshaped panel extended for each sleeve.

Doctor. Black with velvet panels on front of gown and three velvet bars on each sleeve. Color of the velvet may be black or distinctive of the field of study.

The Hood

Bachelor. Three feet long with a two-inch-wide velvet edging*

Master. Three and one-half feet long with a three-inch-wide velvet edging.*

Doctor. Four feet in length with a five-inch-wide velvet edging and panel at the sides.

*Not usually worn by candidates for a degree.

The lining of all hoods, which is folded out, bears the official colors of the institution granting the degree. The color of the velvet indicates the field of study:

Dentistry	Lilac
Law	Purple
Medicine	Green
Musical Arts	Pink
Optometry	Sea-foam Green
Pharmacy	Olive Green
Philosophy	Dark Blue
Veterinary Medicine	Gray

Cap and Tassel

Candidates for degrees at The Ohio State University wear the black mortarboard with a tassel whose color is distinctive of the degree being received. The tassel colors are as follows:

Graduate School	Black
Colleges of the Arts and Sciences
College of the Arts (B.A., B.S.I.D.)	White

School of Music (B.A.)	White
(Others)	Pink
