Ken Lee

Ken Lee is professor and chair of the Department of Food Science and Technology in Ohio State's College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences. As such, he leads the teaching and research efforts of an award-winning faculty that includes two endowed chair holders. The department is housed in the new Parker Food Science and Technology Building.

Professor Lee joined Ohio State's faculty in 1990 after serving for 10 years in the Department of Food Science at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, where he instructed the first live cable television course at the university. He earned his B.S. degree in food science from Rutgers University in 1975 and his Ph.D. in food science and nutrition from the University of Massachusetts in 1980.

He is a nationally recognized expert on the nutritional effects of food processing and has written more than 50 articles for scientific journals in his field. His research includes mineral availability from cured meats, analysis of nutrient inhibitors, mineral binding by dietary fiber, oxidized cholesterol compounds in foods, nitrate metabolism and analysis in foods, anti-nutrients in tea, and hydrocolloids in dairy foods.

Widely sought as a speaker on consumer perceptions of food risks and food safety, he most recently addressed the International Conference on Agricultural Science and Technology, which brought together 2,600 scientists and policy leaders from throughout the world in Beijing, China.

Professor Lee is immediate past president of the Food Update Foundation and has served on the Institute of Food Technologists Executive Committee, chairing the IFT Awards program in 1996. He served on the National Academy of Sciences Planning Committee for review of doctoral programs in agriculture and nutrition, and he was a member of the steering committee for Project Reinvent, a Kellogg Foundation-sponsored initiative to design the land-grant university of 2020.

Ohio State is pleased to have one of its esteemed faculty address today's graduating class.

John N. Bahcall

Doctor of Science

One of the most influential astrophysicists in the world, John Bahcall is the Richard Black Professor of Natural Sciences at the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton, New Jersey. He has held a position as visiting lecturer with the rank of professor at Princeton University for 30 years.

Professor Bahcall has made vital contributions to American science. He played a major role in the development and success of the Hubble Space Telescope, receiving the NASA Distinguished Public Service Medal in 1992 for his scientific work and leadership. He held several leadership roles with the National Academy of Sciences during the 1990s, serving as chair of the National Academy of Science Survey Committee for Astronomy and Astrophysics from 1989 to 1991. During his tenure, the committee successfully set priorities for astrophysical research projects. He also served as president of the American Astronomical Society from 1990 to 1992.

In collaboration with Raymond Davis Jr., Professor Bahcall proposed in 1964 that neutrinos from the sun could be detected via a practical chlorine detector. In the years since, he has refined his theoretical predictions and interpretations of solar neutrino detectors. He received the Presidential Medal of Science in 1998 for his theoretical work on solar neutrinos and for his role in the development of the Hubble Space Telescope.

Professor Bahcall's other areas of expertise include models of the galaxy, dark matter, atomic and nuclear physics applied to astronomical systems, stellar evolution and quasar emission, and absorption lines. The American Astronomical Society has honored him with its Warner, Heinmann, and Russell prizes for his theoretical work. He received the first Hans Bethe prize from the American Physical Society in 1998.

Prior to coming to Princeton, Professor Bahcall served on the California Institute of Technology faculty from 1962 to 1970. He received his A.B. degree from the University of California at Berkeley in 1956, his M.S. from the University of Chicago in 1957, and his Ph.D. in physics from Harvard University in 1961. He served as a research fellow in physics at Indiana University from 1960 to 1962.

Paul Edmund Bierley

Doctor of Music

Paul Edmund Bierley is historian, musician, scholar, lecturer, and, prior to a major career change, aeronautical engineer.

A 1953 graduate of The Ohio State University with a bachelor's degree in aeronautical engineering, Mr. Bierley worked as an engineer for North American Aviation, serving as an airplane and missile designer, technical writer, and data manager. Following his retirement from the engineering field, he devoted his time to pursuing his love of music, especially the life and works of John Philip Sousa. A lifelong musician, he played the tuba with the Columbus Symphony Orchestra from 1965 to 1980 and with the Detroit Concert Band from 1973 to 1993. He served as assistant conductor of the North American Aviation Concert Band from 1961 to 1976.

Mr. Bierley has written the definitive works on Sousa, considered to be the most important figure in the development of the great band tradition in the United States. Through the publication of three works—John Philip Sousa, American Phenomenon (1973), John Philip Sousa: A Descriptive Catalog of His Works (1973), and The Works of John Philip Sousa (1984)—he has provided complete documentation of Sousa's career.

Mr. Bierley formed his own publishing house, Integrity Press, in Westerville, Ohio, to make available books about band music and musicians that might not find publishers elsewhere. Among the nine books published by Integrity thus far are the two-volume Heritage Encyclopedia of Band Music and Supplement to the Heritage Encyclopedia of Band Music, regarded as the most significant documents on band music of the last century. Mr. Bierley's other writings include more than 40 articles for music-related periodicals, numerous liner notes for music recordings, concert program essays, and annotations and biographies for reference books on music.

He is the recipient of a number of awards for his work, including the Edwin Franko Goldman Memorial Citation from the American Bandmasters Association, the Louis Sudler Medal of the Order of Merit from the John Philip Sousa Foundation, the Deems Taylor Award from the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers, the God and Country Award from the Salvation Army, and the Columbus Senior Musicians Hall of Fame.

F. Albert Cotton

Doctor of Science

Internationally recognized as one of the world's preeminent research chemists, F. Albert Cotton is the W.T. Doherty-Welch Foundation Distinguished Professor of Chemistry and director of the Laboratory for Molecular Structure and Bonding at Texas A&M University.

Professor Cotton's research has been in the fields of inorganic chemistry, protein chemistry, structural chemistry, and chemical bonding. He is the originator of and leading authority in the field of compounds containing single and multiple bonds between metal atoms. His other principal contributions have dealt with protein structure, spectroscopic studies of metal carbonyls, and the dynamic behavior of fluxional organometallic and metal carbonyl compounds.

A native of Philadelphia, he received his A.B. degree at Temple University in 1951 and his Ph.D. at Harvard University in 1955. He began his chemistry career as a graduate student at Harvard under the direction of the late Nobel laureate Sir Geoffrey Wilkinson. His first faculty appointment was at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he served for 16 years, becoming full professor in 1961 and Dreyfus Professor in 1969. He joined the Texas A&M faculty in 1972. During his tenure there, Professor Cotton has supervised the research of 105 Ph.D. recipients, and more than 150 postdoctoral fellows and visiting scientists have worked in his laboratory.

Professor Cotton is the author of more than 1,500 scientific research papers, and his work has been among the most cited of all chemists over the past four decades. His books include Advanced Organic Chemistry, co-written with Wilkinson, which first appeared in 1962 and is now in its sixth edition, having sold 500,000 copies and been translated into 14 languages. His textbook Chemical Applications of Group

Theory has been translated into seven languages and is considered the primary textbook for chemists learning the mathematics for dealing with molecular chemistry. In addition, he has written a successful high school text, Chemistry, An Investigative Approach.

His research accomplishments have garnered him numerous national and international honors, including the National Medal of Science, election to the American Academy of Arts and Sciences at age 32, and election to the National Academy of Sciences at the age of 37. Professor Cotton is the only American chemist to have received gold medals from seven American Chemical Society Sections, as well as the Priestly Medal, the society's highest award. He has received the Gold Medal of the American Institute of Chemists, the Wolf Prize in Chemistry from the State of Israel, and the Lavoisier Medal of the French Chemical Society.

A MESSAGE FROM PRESIDENT KIRWAN

Commencement combines the satisfaction of reaching a significant milestone with the excitement of preparing for new opportunities and challenges. It's a time of recognition and celebration, capstone and springboard. It's a time when academia, family, and friends gather for a joyous, exhilarating ceremony.

I have attended hundreds of commencements over the years and still approach each one with anticipation and joy. Graduation Day never loses its luster. Of all the special experiences that come with the job of president, this remains my favorite day.

Today marks my fourteenth commencement ceremony at Ohio State, where I remain honored to serve as the twelfth president. I am proud of our student body, faculty, staff, and administration. I am also proud of the progress that we are making to transform Ohio State into a truly great teaching and research university.

As graduates of this university, you have good reason to feel a strong sense of pride and achievement. While success is never certain, you are well prepared for the challenges and opportunities that await you.

If you're like most of your predecessors, your attachment to Ohio State will become even more meaningful as the years go by. Increasingly, you will recognize this time as among your most important life-altering experiences.

You are also joining a family of over 500,000 Ohio State graduates. I hope you will keep in touch with us and return here often. Meanwhile, congratulations and best wishes to each and every one of you.

W. E. Kirwan

You are a member of the Buckeye family and partner in the enterprise, carrying the reputation of Ohio State through your activities and accomplishments. You exemplify the fruits of a good education: a critical mind, a discerning spirit, higher values, a sense of commitment, and the privilege of service.

You can assist the university in many ways. You can recruit new and highly qualified students. You can represent Ohio State well through personal and occupational achievements. You can participate financially through the Development Fund. And you can work in an advisory capacity with the university to improve it and its programs to better prepare today's students for tomorrow's citizenship.

We extend to you a year's complimentary membership in the Alumni Association. Included is a year's subscription to the Ohio State Alumni Magazine, which will keep you informed of the university's continuing pursuit of excellence and help you keep in touch with your friends and classmates.

This printed program, therefore, should not be used to determine a student's academic or degree status. The University's official registry for conferral of degrees is the student's permanent academic record, kept by the Office of The University Registrar, 202 Lincoln Tower, 1800 Cannon Drive, Columbus, Ohio 43210.

THE ACADEMIC COSTUME

The colorful ceremonies of The Ohio State University commencement derive from practices originating in the Middle Ages. When European universities were taking form in the 12th and 13th centuries, the scholars were usually clerics, and consequently they adopted costumes similar to those of their monastic orders. Cold halls and drafty buildings called for caps and floor-length capes with attached hoods, and the sobering influence of the church probably influenced the staid character of the caps and gowns.

As the control of the universities gradually passed from the church, some aspects of the costumes took on brighter hues. Old prints and engravings, however, reveal a strong similarity between the regalia worn in early universities and that of the present day.

In light of our nation's English heritage, academic costume has been in use in the United States since colonial times. To establish a standard of uniformity in regard to the practice, an intercollegiate commission was formed to prepare a code for caps, gowns, and hoods that has since been adopted by all academic institutions.

Originally round, the shape of the cap is now the familiar mortarboard square—a shape which, according to ballad folklore, resembles a scholar's book. Legend also has it that the privilege of wearing a cap was the initial right of a freed Roman slave; the academic cap, therefore, has become a sign of the freedom of scholarship. The flowing gown has become symbolic of the democracy of scholarship, for it covers any dress that might indicate rank or social status. The hood, reserved at The Ohio State University for those receiving doctoral degrees, not only indicates the type of degree, but also is lined with the official colors of the university.

The Gown

Bachelor: Black, full cut with long pointed sleeves.

Master: Black, long or short sleeves with arc-shaped panel extended for each sleeve.

Doctor: Black with velvet panels on front of gown and three velvet bars on each sleeve. Color of the velvet may be black or distinctive of the field of study.

Honors Emblem

The Ohio State University honors emblem is a scarlet and gray tasseled braid worn over the gown. Students eligible for this curricular honor are those graduating summa cum laude, magna cum laude, cum laude, with distinction, with honors in business, with honors in the liberal arts, and with honors in pharmacy.

The Hood

Bachelor: Three feet long with a two-inch-wide velvet edging.*

Master: Three and one-half feet long with a three-inch-wide velvet edging.*

Doctor: Four feet in length with a five-inch-wide velvet edging and panel at the sides.
