Class of 1994

Oh! come let's sing Ohio's praise,
And songs to Alma Mater raise;
While our hearts rebounding thrill,
With joy which death alone can still.
Summer's heat or Winter's cold,
The seasons pass, the years will roll;
Time and change will surely show
How firm thy friendship—Ohio.

Commencement Address

Mark R. Goldston

One of the nation's most successful young businessmen, Mark R. Goldston is credited with some of the biggest market turnarounds in American business history.

As president and chief operating officer of L.A. Gear, Mr. Goldston led the athletic shoe and sportswear company in 1993 to its first net profit in more than three years. Before joining L.A. Gear in 1991, he was a principal of Odyssey Partners, a New York City-based investment firm.

Mr. Goldston formerly was senior vice-president/chief marketing officer of Reebok, where he helped invent "The Pump," an inflatable athletic shoe that earned the company $300 million, and Hexalite, an ultralight cushioning system. He is co-author of the U.S. patent for the "Visible Energy Return" athletic shoe system. He was instrumental in creating a new product development system that enabled Reebok to bring products to market in six months instead of two years.

Before joining Reebok, he was president/chief operating officer of Faberge U.S.A., making him the youngest president of a Fortune 500 consumer product company at age 32. He helped dramatically increase Faberge's sales and profits and was responsible for acquiring the Elizabeth Arden Company, turning Faberge into a $1.2 billion firm. Prior to Faberge, he was the first person to hold the title of vice president of worldwide marketing at Revlon and, at 29, the youngest vice president in the company's history. He is credited with taking Revlon's fragrance division from a $7 million loss to a $9 million profit during 1984-85.

Goldston received his bachelor's degree in marketing and finance from Ohio State in 1977 and an MBA from Northwestern's Kellogg School of Management in 1978. He is a member of the Dean's Advisory Board of Directors at Kellogg and has taught for five years in the school's Executive Education Center as part of the Consumer Marketing Strategy Program. He is author of the recently published book, The Turnaround Prescription.

He has received numerous business awards, including being named to the "American Management Dream Team" in 1989 by Business Month magazine. In 1987, Fortune magazine named him one of three "Executives to Watch" in their annual Fortune 500 issue.

Ohio State proudly welcomes this successful business strategist and distinguished alumnus to address our graduating class.

Recipients of Honors

John B. Gerlach

Doctor of Business Administration

John B. "Bernie" Gerlach, president and director of Lancaster Colony Corporation, is a respected business leader in the field of manufacturing and a tireless advocate for The Ohio State University.

With his father, Mr. Gerlach founded Lancaster Colony Corporation in 1961. Lancaster Colony has grown into a diverse manufacturer and marketer of specialty foods, automotive accessories, glass, and candles. He is also a partner in the public accounting firm of John Gerlach & Company.

A charter member and current chair of The Ohio State University Foundation Board, the university's primary fund-raising arm, Mr. Gerlach served as chairperson of the Columbus Regional Campaign in the successful 1985-90 University Campaign. The Columbus Campaign raised more than $178 million. Mr. Gerlach has also played a leadership role in campaigns for other colleges, including human ecology, business, arts, and education; the James Cancer Hospital; and the Wexner Center for the Arts. He secured matching funds for the Presidential Young Investigators program in 1989 and continues to promote that program.

In 1982, he established the John J. Gerlach Chair in Accounting in honor of his father, and he has been a generous supporter of intercollegiate athletics, serving on the steering committee of Ohio State's Campaign for Athletic Excellence.

Recognized by his peers for his business acumen, he has received a number of awards, including membership in the Central Ohio Business Hall of Fame, the 1987 honoree of the Newcomen Society of the United States, and the 1990 Pace Setters Executive Award. He is a recipient of Ohio State's Distinguished Service Award (1988) and the Alumni Association's Ralph Davenport Mershon Award (1992).

He is an active community leader, currently serving on numerous boards including Riverside Methodist Hospitals and the Columbus Symphony Orchestra. He is chairman of the board of the Columbus Foundation.

Mr. Gerlach attended Ohio State's College of Commerce (now the Fisher College of Business) from 1945-47 and received his bachelor of science degree in business administration from Ohio University in 1949.

It is with great pride and deep gratitude that Ohio State recognizes the unfailing support and advice of this valued friend.

Damon J. Keith

Doctor of Laws

As one of America's best known and most respected African-American jurists, Damon J. Keith has long been a champion of equal justice under the law.

He was appointed to the United States Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit in 1977. For the preceding 10 years, the Detroit native was a judge of the United States District Court, Eastern District of Michigan, serving as Chief Judge from 1975-77.

A graduate of West Virginia State University and Howard University Law School, Judge Keith also holds an L.L.M. degree from the Wayne State University School of Law. All three of his alma maters, as well as 22 other universities, including Michigan and Yale, have recognized his legal contributions by awarding him honorary doctoral degrees.

Among his most noted opinions are his 1972 ruling in United States vs. Sinclair (also known as the "Keith" decision) in which he ruled that President Richard Nixon and Attorney General John Mitchell were constitutionally prohibited from wiretapping the residence of a political dissident unless a warrant was issued, and a 1977 affirmative action ruling in which he held that the Detroit Police Department could make race-conscious promotions to help remedy the effects of past discrimination.

For 21 consecutive years, Judge Keith has been named one of the "One Hundred Most Influential Black Americans" by Ebony magazine. His numerous other awards include the NAACP Spingard Medal; the Equal Justice Award of the National Bar Association; the Judge of the Year Award from the National Conference of Black Lawyers; and the Thurgood Marshall Award from the Wolverine Bar Association.

In 1974, the Damon Keith Elementary School was dedicated by the Detroit Board of Education. In 1989, Judge Keith was a joint recipient with General Colin Powell of the Patriots Foundation/General Motors Corporation One Nation Award.

Last year, the Damon J. Keith Law Collection was established at Wayne State University. The first of its kind, the collection brings together the historical accomplishments of African-American lawyers and judges in a central depository of more than 100 years of records, documents, photographs, personal papers, and memorabilia.

Ohio State respectfully recognizes the many and distinguished contributions of this eminent jurist.

Recipients of Honors

Ralph W. Howard Distinguished Service Award

As one of Ohio State's most devoted alumni, Ralph W. Howard was instrumental in founding the university's regional campus in Marion, Ohio, and remains an active supporter to this day.

A lifelong resident of the Marion area, Howard received his jurisprudence degree from Ohio State in 1948. Following his service in the U. S. Army Air Corps during World War II, he returned to Marion to practice corporate and taxation law.

Long active with the Ohio State Alumni Association, Mr. Howard was one of the eight founders of Ohio State Marion, which began offering classes in 1957. He served as chairman of the Steering Solicitation Committee of the Marion Area Campus Development Fund, which raised more than $600,000 in three weeks toward the purchase and development of a permanent Marion campus.

He is a charter member and first president of The Ohio State University at Marion Citizens Advisory Council and is one of only four to be elected to lifetime membership in that group. He is also the recipient of Ohio State Marion Founders' Award. His long history of volunteerism and support of the Marion campus was recognized when the 1985 Student Recognition Program was dedicated to him.

Active in numerous community projects, Mr. Howard has served on the Marion City Board of Education, as chairman-secretary of the Marion General Hospital Board of Directors, as general campaign chairman and president of United Way of Marion County, president of the Marion YMCA and Marion YMCA Foundation, board member and general counsel of the Marion County Youth Foundation, and executive board member of the Harding Area Council Boy Scouts of America. He is founder and past president of Marion Junior Achievement, past president and director of the Marion Rotary Club, and a charter member and past president of Marion Rotary Citizens.

His many honors include the Marion County Outstanding Citizens Award, The Marion County United Way Service Award, the Rotary International Oscar Award, and the Ohio State Bar Foundation Fellow.

Ohio State gratefully adds its own recognition of this energetic and outstanding ambassador for the university.

Roy M. Kottman Distinguished Service Award

For more than 34 years, Roy M. Kottman embodied the voice and vision of agriculture in Ohio.

Vice President and Executive Dean for Agriculture Emeritus, Dr. Kottman retired from Ohio State in 1982. His original appointment at the university was as dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics and director of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center. He also served as director of the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service from 1964 to February 1982. He held the rank of professor of animal science throughout the 22 years that he served as chief administrative officer in the college.

During his tenure at Ohio State, Dr. Kottman founded the Farm Science Review, Ohio's showcase of new agricultural technology; the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center to stress the importance of innovative faculty research; and the Ohio Agricultural Council. He was instrumental in establishing Ohio State's Agricultural Technical Institute, School of Natural Resources, College of Biological Sciences, and College of Human Ecology.

Upon his retirement from Ohio State, Dr. Kottman served one year as acting associate director of the Nevada Agricultural Experiment Station. He then accepted a part-time position with the Ohio State University Development Fund, where he served until his recent death.

Through his efforts, 15 buildings were constructed on Ohio State's Columbus campus and the OARDC Wooster campus, funded in part by the state legislature. Ohio State's $13.5 million agronomy, natural resources, and plant pathology building is named Roy M. Kottman Hall.

A native of Iowa, Dr. Kottman held a bachelor of science degree in animal science from Iowa State University, a master of science degree in genetics from the University of Wisconsin, and a doctorate in animal breeding from Iowa State.

He received numerous awards, including an honorary degree from The College of Wooster, the National Limestone Institute's Distinguished Service Award, the Soil Conservation Society of America's Honor Award, and the honorary American farmer degree from the National FFA Association.

Dr. Kottman passed away last Saturday. It is with deep respect that Ohio State recognizes the many contributions of this distinguished scientist, teacher, administrator, and friend.

The Academy of Teaching

The Academy of Teaching represents excellence in teaching and reflects Ohio State's commitment to quality education. Membership in the Academy of Teaching is a great honor, reserved for those recipients of the Alumni Award for Distinguished Teaching who are active faculty at the university. Its members are charged with promoting, enhancing, and recognizing good teaching. Their projects include mentoring young faculty members, helping prepare graduate students for the teaching ranks, serving as consultants and reviewers for departments, and advising the president and the chief academic officers on important issues relating to teaching.

1994 Recipients of the Alumni Award for Distinguished Teaching

John P. Bruno
Associate Professor
Department of Psychology

Dr. Bruno, who is widely recognized as a leading scholar in the field of psychobiology, has consistently been cited as one of the best teachers in the Department of Psychology. He has been nominated for the Alumni Award for Distinguished Teaching four times and was last year's Teacher of the Year in the department. A faculty member here since 1986, he teaches developmental psychology, physiological psychology, individual studies in biopsychology, and seminars in experimental psychology. He is a member of the department's undergraduate curriculum committee and is helping to revamp the undergraduate degree program in psychology. His students praise both the immediacy and depth of his knowledge and his personable approach to teaching.

Josina M. Makau
Associate Professor
Department of Communication

Dr. Makau, a specialist in rhetoric and argumentation, takes her scholarly expertise into the classroom. Her students are enriched by her ability to help them see connections between theory and practice, especially across disciplines. They also admire the way she presents controversial ideas in a non-threatening manner and her ability to elicit class participation. In addition to supervising the graduate teaching assistants in rhetoric, Dr. Makau teaches introduction to rhetorical analysis, argumentation and debate, ethics of communication, and legal reasoning. A member of Ohio State's faculty since 1979, she is a national leader in developing a new model of argumentation which moves away from traditional confrontation styles to a broader conception of the process.

Frederick D. Meyers
Associate Professor
Department of Engineering Graphics

Professor Meyers, who worked for nearly 30 years as an engineer for Owens Corning Fiberglass Corporation before joining the Ohio State faculty in 1982, brings a wealth of experience to his classes in entry level engineering graphics. His students appreciate his "real world" approach, as well as his generous attention to their individual needs. As the 1993 winner of the College of Engineering's best teacher award, Professor Meyers has done much to improve the undergraduate engineering program, including writing textbook material, surveying alumni and their employers, and collecting data from industry. As faculty adviser to Tau Beta Pi, he has helped revive the engineering honorary into a tightly knit group which serves the college and community.

Antoinette C. Miranda
Assistant Professor
Department of Educational Services and Research

A former practicing school psychologist, Dr. Miranda came to Ohio State in 1988. She teaches graduate level courses in school psychology and has major responsibility for the year-long internship program, a departmental cultural diversity course, and a seminar series in preschool psychology. She has received a four-year, $100,000 annual grant from the U.S. Department of Education to train school psychologists to work with preschool age children in Project Head Start. Her students praise her contagious energy, innovation, and accessibility, in addition to her ability to clearly relate theory to practice.

The Academy of Teaching

Barry L. Nelson
Associate Professor
Department of Industrial and Systems Engineering

Dr. Nelson designed and teaches a required undergraduate course in computer simulation as well as graduate level courses in modeling systems and advanced simulation design. An internationally known expert in the field of statistical methods and analysis for computer simulation, especially in variance reduction, he recently completed the manuscript for a textbook which takes a fresh approach to teaching engineering methods. Despite the difficulty of the course material he presents, Dr. Nelson, an Ohio State faculty member since 1984, is highly regarded by his students. In 1992 he was named best teacher in the College of Engineering, and his nominators for this award praised the exceptional clarity and organization of his class presentations.

Joy H. Reilly
Associate Professor
Department of Theatre

Since 1986, Dr. Reilly has been introducing hundreds of Ohio State students to the theatre each year. As a lecturer in the large GEC course Theatre 100, she has shown them by word and example the power of a good performance. The student nominators noted her ability to make a class of 600 or more students seem intimate and to encourage discussion and participation within such a large group. Many credit her with giving them an appreciation for theatre and the arts that continues to enrich their lives years later. In addition, Dr. Reilly teaches a variety of other theatre courses and is active as an actress and director in university and community theatre.

Deborah L. Tannehill
Associate Professor
School of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation

Dr. Tannehill is a role model for the future teachers in her physical education classes, demonstrating effective teaching techniques. An Ohio State faculty member since 1987, she teaches an introductory class in teaching and classroom management, track and field skills, skill analysis, and instructional design. She also is the coordinator of student teaching in physical education. Dr. Tannehill is particularly interested in the use of interactive video disc technology in physical education. Her students praise her for setting high standards, demonstrating enthusiasm, giving timely and valuable feedback, and providing personal encouragement.

Joseph T. Zeidan
Associate Professor
Department of Judaic, Near Eastern, and Hellenic Languages and Literatures

Dr. Zeidan has been at Ohio State since 1986. His areas of specialization are classical and modern Arabic, modern Hebrew literature, and intellectual movements in the modern Arab world. He teaches a wide range of courses dealing with Arabic literature, grammar, conversation, and composition. His students comment on his dedication and enthusiasm, his genuine interest in helping them learn, and his very supportive and cooperative approach to teaching. He has developed and recently upgraded an honors version of Arabic 273: Modern Arabic Literature in Translation which has attracted a growing number of students.

The Academic Costume

The colorful ceremonies of The Ohio State University Commencements derive from practices originating in the Middle Ages. When European universities were taking form in the 12th and 13th centuries, the scholars were usually clerics, and consequently they adopted costumes similar to those of their monastic orders. Cold halls and drafty buildings called for caps and floor-length capes with attached hoods, and the sobering influence of the church probably influenced the staid character of the caps and gowns.

As the control of the universities gradually passed from the church, some aspects of the costumes took on brighter hues. Old prints and engravings, however, reveal a strong similarity between the regalia worn in early universities and that of the present day.

In the light of our nation's English heritage, academic costume has been in use in the United States since colonial times. To establish a standard of uniformity in regard to the practice, an intercollegiate commission was formed to prepare a code for caps, gowns, and hoods that has since been adopted by all academic institutions.

Originally round, the shape of the cap is now the familiar mortarboard square—a shape which, according to ballad folklore, resembles a scholar's book. Legend also has it that the privilege of wearing a cap was the initial right of a freed Roman slave; the academic cap, therefore, has become a sign of the freedom of scholarship. The flowing gown has become symbolic of the democracy of scholarship for it covers any dress that might indicate rank or social status. The hood, reserved at The Ohio State University for those receiving doctoral degrees, not only indicates the type of degree, but also is lined with the official colors of the University.

The Gown

Bachelor. Black, full cut with long pointed sleeves.

Master. Black, long or short sleeves with a re-shaped panel extended for each sleeve.

Doctor. Black with velvet panels on front of gown and three velvet bars on each sleeve. Color of the velvet may be black or distinctive of the field of study.

The Hood

Bachelor. Three feet long with a two-inch-wide velvet edging.*

Master. Three and one-half feet long with a three-inch-wide velvet edging.*

Doctor. Four feet in length with a five-inch-wide velvet edging and panel at the sides.

* Not usually worn by candidates for a degree.

The lining of all hoods, which is folded out, bears the official colors of the institution granting the degree.

The color of the velvet indicates the field of study:

Dentistry	Lilac
Law	Purple
Medicine	Green
Musical Arts	Pink
Optometry	Sea-foam Green
Pharmacy	Olive Green
Philosophy	Dark Blue
Veterinary Medicine	Gray

Cap and Tassel

Candidates for degrees at The Ohio State University wear the black mortarboard with a tassel whose color is distinctive of the degree being received. The tassel colors are as follows:

School of Music (B.A.)	White
