Frank H. T. Rhodes

Doctor of Education

A scientist and educator of international reputation, Frank H. T. Rhodes is the ninth president of Cornell University.

Before taking the Cornell presidency, Professor Rhodes was vice president for academic affairs at the University of Michigan. He joined the Michigan faculty as professor of geology in 1968, and in 1971, was named dean of the College of Literature, Science, and the Arts.

Born in Warwickshire, England, Professor Rhodes received his bachelor of science, doctor of philosophy, and doctor of science degrees from the University of Birmingham before coming to the United States in 1950 as a Fulbright Scholar and postdoctoral fellow at the University of Illinois.

He spent the 1965-66 academic year at Ohio State as a National Science Foundation senior visiting research fellow, delivering Ohio State's annual Bownocker Lecture in geology in 1966.

Professor Rhodes has been a prominent participant in higher education policy. In 1987, President Reagan appointed him to the National Science Board, and in 1989, President Bush named him to the President's Education Policy Advisory Committee. He is a former member of the Smithsonian Institution's Advisory Research Committee, former chair of the Board of Directors of the American Council on Education, and former chair of the Executive Committee of the Association of American Universities.

Professor Rhodes chaired the 1987 National Commission on Minority Participation in Education and American Life that produced the report "One-Third of a Nation."

In 1987, Professor Rhodes received the Higher Education Leadership Award from the Commission on Independent Colleges and Universities and the Justin Morrill Award from the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges. In the same year, he was named a Distinguished Fellow by both the Academy for Educational Development and the Fulbright Foundation.

Since 1962, Professor Rhodes has been editor of the geology series of the International Library of Science and Technology. He is a member of numerous geological and paleontological societies and has served as an external examiner in geology for advanced degrees at various universities in Australia, India, the United Kingdom, and Canada. He has been author, consultant, and participant on several educational radio and television programs, including the BBC-TV series, "The Planet Earth."

Ohio State is proud to welcome this learned academician and administrator back to campus to address the 321st commencement exercises.

Kenneth E. Boulding

Doctor of Science

One of the outstanding social scientists of the 20th century, Kenneth E. Boulding has made a profound impression on the world's view of economic theory.

For the past seven decades, Professor Boulding has argued that an economic system should be viewed as a system of asset production, consumption, and transformation. He coined the term "spaceship Earth" to place human production within the ecosystem and to emphasize the effects of environmental stress.

In addition to his revolutionary work on economics, Professor Boulding has made extensive contributions to the other social sciences, as well as general systems theory, conflict resolution, and the humanities. He is a key founder in the field of peace studies and has been an devoted pacifist throughout his life.

Professor Boulding published his first article at the age of 22, and over the next 60 years, he wrote more than 800 articles, monographs, pamphlets, and reviews. He has also written or edited some 50 books.

Although his economic theories remain outside the mainstream, Boulding is highly respected by his colleagues. He has received numerous honors and awards, including the John Bates Clark Medal of the American Economic Association.

Professor Boulding has received 33 honorary degrees and has held a number of visiting professorships around the world, including Distinguished Visiting Professor at Ohio State in 1981.

Professor Boulding received his bachelor's and master's degrees from Oxford University and was a Commonwealth Fellow at the University of Chicago from 1932-34. Before joining the faculty as professor of economics at the University of Michigan in 1949, he held faculty positions at the University of Edinburgh, Colgate University, Fisk University, Iowa State College, and McGill University.

He remained at the University of Michigan until 1968, serving as co-director, research director, and then director of the university's Center for Research on Conflict Resolution from 1964-66. In 1968 he joined the University of Colorado economics faculty, becoming Distinguished Professor of Economics in 1977. He continues at the University of Colorado as research associate and project director of the Institute of Behavioral Science's Program of Research on Political and Economic Change.

Ohio State is proud to add its recognition to the many deserved honors already bestowed on this distinguished scholar, philosopher, and teacher.

Leonard J. Immke, Jr.

Distinguished Service Award

A dynamic businessman and community leader, Leonard J. Immke, Jr. was a steadfast friend to Ohio State until his death in December 1991. Mr. Immke was president and general manager of Len Immke Buick and Rolls Royce, Inc.

For more than a decade, Mr. Immke served the university in a variety of capacities. A member of Ohio State's Board of Trustees for nine years, he served as chair in 1989. He was then appointed to University Hospitals Board of Trustees, serving on that board until his death. He was a founding member of the Ohio Cancer Foundation Board, which oversaw planning for the Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute and now works to provide an endowment for ongoing research.

He also served on Ohio State's Development Fund Board, the National Campaign Committee, and the University Foundation Board. Both he and his wife, Charlotte, are members of The Presidents Club.

Mr. Immke and his wife have been generous in their support of a wide range of university projects and programs, including the studio arts, athletics, engineering, human ecology, and medicine. Their primary interest has been cancer research, for which they endowed the Leonard J. Immke, Jr. and Charlotte L. Immke Chair in 1985. That chair is now fully funded and held by the eminent molecular biologist Dr. Neil M. Wilkie.

Mr. Immke's commercial acumen was amply demonstrated by his success in the automobile business, real estate development, and in partnership with R. David Thomas in founding Wendy's International, Inc. He was a director of Wendy's and of Capital Plaza Parking Company.

Mr. Immke shared his talents with numerous civic and charitable organizations, serving as a trustee for Children's Hospital of Columbus, the Columbus Symphony Orchestra, the Columbus Cancer Clinic, the Center of Science and Industry, and the Central Ohio Boy Scout Council.

Mr. Immke was born in Cleveland in 1929 to German immigrant parents. He worked his way up in the auto business from mechanic to sales and management. In 1963, he moved to Columbus where he purchased his first dealership.

Mr. Immke will long be remembered for his generosity of spirit, his love for the university, and his efforts to better his community. Ohio State is proud to memorialize his far-reaching contributions with its Distinguished Service Award.

The Academic Costume

The colorful ceremonies of The Ohio State University Commencements derive from practices originating in the Middle Ages. When European universities were taking form in the 12th and 13th centuries, the scholars were usually clerics, and consequently they adopted costumes similar to those of their monastic orders. Cold halls and drafty buildings called for caps and floor-length capes with attached hoods, and the sobering influence of the church probably influenced the staid character of the caps and gowns.

As the control of the universities gradually passed from the church, some aspects of the costumes took on brighter hues. Old prints and engravings, however, reveal a strong similarity between the regalia worn in early universities and that of the present day.

In the light of our nation's English heritage, academic costume has been in use in the United States since colonial times. To establish a standard of uniformity in regard to the practice, an intercollegiate commission was formed to prepare a code for caps, gowns, and hoods that has since been adopted by all academic institutions.

Originally round, the shape of the cap is now the familiar mortarboard square—a shape which, according to ballad folklore, resembles a scholar's book. Legend also has it that the privilege of wearing a cap was the initial right of a freed Roman slave; the academic cap, therefore, has become a sign of the freedom of scholarship. The flowing gown has become symbolic of the democracy of scholarship for it covers any dress that might indicate rank or social status. The hood, reserved at The Ohio State University for those receiving doctoral degrees, not only indicates the type of degree, but also is lined with the official colors of the University.

The Gown

Bachelor. Black, full cut with long pointed sleeves.

Master. Black, long or short sleeves with a re-shaped panel extended for each sleeve.

Doctor. Black with velvet panels on front of gown and three velvet bars on each sleeve. Color of the velvet may be black or distinctive of the field of study.

The Hood

Bachelor. Three feet long with a two-inch-wide velvet edging.*

Master. Three and one-half feet long with a three-inch-wide velvet edging.*

Doctor. Four feet in length with a five-inch-wide velvet edging and panel at the sides.

* Not usually worn by candidates for a degree.

The lining of all hoods, which is folded out, bears the official colors of the institution granting the degree. The color of the velvet indicates the field of study:

Optometry	Sea-foam Green
Pharmacy	Olive Green
