Commencement Address

Peter L. Scott

Doctor of Business Administration

Over the past half-century, Peter L. Scott, retired chairman and CEO of Black & Decker Corporation, has had a remarkable career as entrepreneur and corporate leader. A 1949 graduate of Ohio State's College of Engineering, Mr. Scott has consistently demonstrated his expertise in reviving dormant corporations.

In his first post-college job for the Foster Transformer Company of Cincinnati, Mr. Scott's design for power transformers so impressed executives at Geophysical Services, later to become Texas Instruments, that they recruited him—a pattern that was to recur throughout his career. Three years later, at the age of 24, Mr. Scott formed his own company, Hermetic Seal Transformer, which grew to an $8 million business in five years. The company was acquired by Dresser Industries, and Mr. Scott became president. Another of his companies, Scott Electronics, was soon acquired by NCR, and he went on to head its electronics subsidiary. He was named vice president of NCR in 1972.

In 1975, he moved to United Technologies Corporation where, as executive vice president and board member, he founded UTC's $3.5 billion electronics sector, an organization of 49,000 employees in 11 countries. In 1983, he founded Technology Transitions, Inc., a high-technology venture capital and investment firm, which he merged with Emhart Corporation in 1985. He merged Emhart with Black & Decker in 1989 and became chairman of the combined companies. He retired from active business in 1991.

Mr. Scott has served on the boards of a diverse group of companies, including Hartford Steam Boiler Inspection and Insurance Company, Owens-Corning Fiberglass, Mack Trucks, the Bank of New England, National Steel Corporation, and Sun Bank. He has lent his leadership to such organizations as The Business Roundtable, the Navy League of the United States, the President's Advisory Council for Trade Negotiations, the Pinellas Area Boy Scouts Council, and The Living Institute Hospital of Hartford, Conn.

Long committed to education, he has established an endowment fund in Ohio State's College of Engineering to stimulate innovative thinking among professors.

Ohio State is delighted to welcome this creative and enterprising business leader to address today's graduates and their families.

Recipient of Honors

John Price Hirth
Doctor of Science

One of the world's preeminent materials scientists, John Price Hirth is currently Battelle Distinguished Professor at Washington State University and a Distinguished Scientific Fellow at Battelle Pacific Northwest Laboratories.

A native of Cincinnati, Dr. Hirth received his B.S. and M.S. degrees in metallurgical engineering from Ohio State in 1953. After two years in the U.S. Air Force, he enrolled at Carnegie Institute of Technology (now Carnegie Mellon University), receiving his Ph.D. in 1957. In 1961, he joined Ohio State as a Mershon Associate Professor in metallurgical engineering. He became full professor in 1964, remaining at Ohio State until 1988 when he took early retirement.

His 27 years at Ohio State were marked by hard work and superior performance in teaching, research, and service. During his tenure, he gained recognition as the leading expert on dislocation theory in materials science as well as other physical and mechanical behaviors of solids. His work has been instrumental in the development of new alloys and composites for aerospace applications and for new thin-film electronic devices.

His excellence as a teacher and researcher has been recognized with numerous awards, including Ohio State's University Distinguished Research Award (1979), MacQuigg Teaching Award (1982), College Distinguished Research Award (1985), and the College of Engineering's B. G. Lamme Meritorious Achievement Medal (1993). His honors from other universities and scientific societies are numerous, and he has been elected to both the National Academy of Sciences and the National Academy of Engineering. He is also a member of the Norwegian Academy of Science and Letters. Dr. Hirth presented Ohio State's commencement address in March 1987.

He served as editor of the journal Scripta Metallurgica et Materialia from 1974 to 1994 and has authored or co-authored some 400 publications.

It is with deep respect that Ohio State adds its own recognition to the many honors already held by this renowned scientist and scholar.

Austin E. Knowlton
Doctor of Architecture

One of our nation's most successful architects and builders, Austin E. Knowlton, owner and CEO of the Austin E. Knowlton Companies, received his degree in architecture and civil engineering from Ohio State in 1931.

Following graduation, the Athens, Ohio, native joined and later assumed ownership of his father's company, Knowlton Construction Company, which was engaged in constructing public buildings such as schools, hospitals, and industrial projects.

Possessing a keen business sense, Mr. Knowlton has through the years successfully integrated the complementary elements of manufacture and service to meet market demands. During World War II, he and his brother started a business manufacturing large wooden boxes and crates for shipping heavy material overseas. He also began a company to sell and service Beechcraft engines in Ohio and the surrounding area, including Wright Patterson Air Force Base.

Subsequent companies founded by Mr. Knowlton have been able to manage all aspects of a contract, often including design, engineering, building, management, leasing, and financing. His companies have designed, financed, and built more than 160 college and university buildings at nearly every major campus in Ohio as well more than 100 elementary and secondary schools. His companies have also constructed more than 35 major hospitals and 43

U. S. Post Offices throughout the country.

His Ohio State buildings include the Fawcett Center, Hitchcock Hall, Houck House, Jones Graduate Tower, the School of Allied Medical Professions, Wilce Student Health Center, Drake Union, and Larkins Hall. The Knowlton School of Architecture has been named in his honor.

An avid sportsman, Mr. Knowlton is a former owner and director of the Cincinnati Reds and is a founder and current chairman of the board of the Cincinnati Bengals. He is active in raising and showing American Saddlebred horses.

Ohio State is proud to honor an alumnus who has reached the pinnacle of his profession and who has made a significant impact on community life through his buildings.

Howard T. Odum

Doctor of Science

Howard T. Odum, graduate research professor of environmental engineering sciences at the University of Florida, is a pioneer in the field of ecology. He has distinguished himself in a variety of disciplines, including marine science, wetland and aquatic geology, economics, engineering, and public policy, and is acknowledged as the founder of the developing discipline of ecological engineering.

Born in Durham, North Carolina, Dr. Odum served as an Air Force meteorologist in the Canal Zone during World War II. Following the war, he received his A.B. degree in zoology from the University of North Carolina in 1947 and his Ph.D. in the bio-geochemistry of strontium zoology from Yale University.

His academic career includes appointments as assistant professor at the University of Florida and at Duke University and Duke Marine Laboratory; director of the Institute of Marine Science of the University of Texas at Port Aransas; chief scientist at the Puerto Rico Nuclear Center; and professor of ecology at the University of North Carolina. He returned to the University of Florida in 1970 as graduate research professor and, in 1972, became director of the university's Center for Wetlands.

His studies of the self-organization of ecosystems in bays, the rain forest, and wetlands have had a profound influence on environmentalists and conservationists as well as economists and policy makers. He is the author of Environment, Power and Society (1971); Energy Basis for Man and Nature (1976); Systems Ecology (1983); and Ecological Mesocosms (1993).

Dr. Odum is the recipient of a number of prestigious awards, including the George Mercer Award from the Ecological Society of America; the AIBS Distinguished Service Award; the University of Florida Presidential Medal; and the Prize of the Institute de la Vie in Paris and the Crafoord Prize of the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences, both of which he shared with his brother, Eugene.

Ohio State is proud to recognize this eminent researcher and teacher for his distinguished contributions to multiple disciplines.

John W. Berry
Distinguished Service Award

John W. Berry's leadership has been invaluable in guiding Ohio State into the next century. The chairman of Berry Investments, Inc., and president and trustee of the Loren M. Berry Foundation, Mr. Berry was a member of Ohio State's Board of Trustees from 1981 to 1990, serving as chair in 1989-90.

A Dayton native, Mr. Berry received his bachelor's degree from Dartmouth College in 1944. While serving in the U.S. Army, he also attended Louisiana State University's School of Engineering. In 1940, he began work as a salesman at L.M. Berry and Co., a telephone directory advertising company, and worked his way through the ranks, becoming president in 1963 and chairman of the board and CEO in 1973. In 1987, he was appointed chairman emeritus of the board.

Mr. Berry's service to Ohio State began in 1981 when he was appointed to the university's board of trustees by Governor James Rhodes. During his tenure on the board, he saw the university through its first $1 billion budget and its first capital campaign. The five-year campaign, completed in June 1990, raised more than $460 million. Mr. Berry contributed significantly to the campaign with the endowment of the Berry Chair in New Technologies in Marketing.

He continues to serve the university through participation on The Ohio State University Foundation Board and the President's Business Advisory Council. In addition, he is an important advocate for Ohio State in the Dayton/Miami Valley region, home to more than 10,000 alumni.

Active in political affairs, Mr. Berry is a member of the executive committee and vice chairman of the Ohio Republican Finance Committee and a director of the Montgomery County Republican Finance Committee and the Republican National Finance Committee.

His community involvement has included service on the boards of the Dayton Chamber of Commerce, United Way of Dayton, and the Dayton Urban League. He is the recipient of the Spirit of Life award from the City of Hope. Mr. Berry holds honorary degrees from Rio Grande College, the University of Dayton, and Dartmouth College.

Ohio State gratefully acknowledges the continuing support and leadership skills of this dedicated friend of the university.

Kathryn T. Schoen
Distinguished Service Award

Kathryn T. Schoen served Ohio State with distinction as a faculty member and an administrator for more than two decades.

Dr. Schoen, who attended Taylor University in Indiana and Northwestern University, received her B.S. degree from Capital University in Columbus in 1957. She holds both a master's degree and a doctorate from Ohio State. She spent nearly 20 years as an elementary and secondary public school teacher in Missouri, Utah, and Ohio before joining the faculty at Ohio State's College of Education in 1962 as an instructor and supervisor of student teachers.

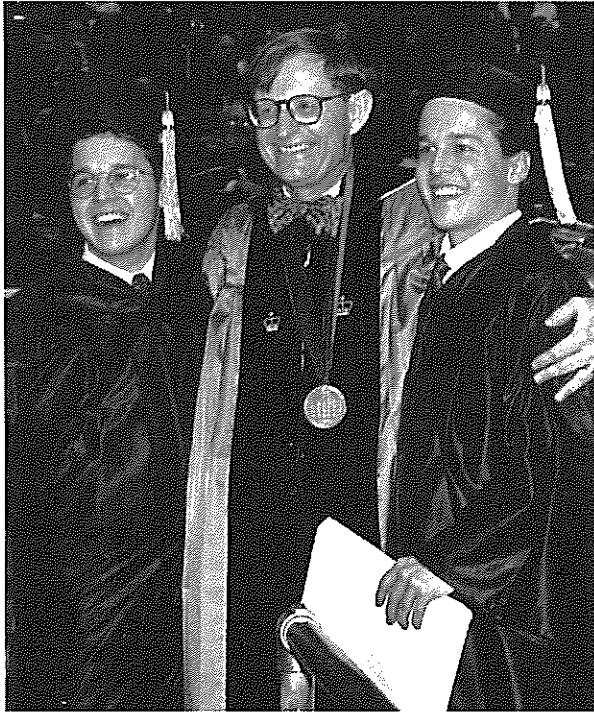

She advanced through the academic ranks, holding teaching positions in both the College of Education and the School of Allied Medical Professions and becoming full professor of allied medicine and communication in 1972 and professor of curriculum and foundations in the College of Education in 1975. From 1967 to 1972, she also served as director of medical communications in the School of Allied Medical Professions and as assistant, associate, then acting director of the school.

In 1970, she co-chaired the first University Committee on the Status of Women, which produced a landmark study on the status of faculty, staff, and student women. Dr. Schoen was instrumental in seeing that fair admissions practices were instituted at the university. She became associate provost for faculties in 1972 and in 1978 was named vice-president for educational services, the first woman in the university's history to attain that administrative rank. In 1982, she served briefly as acting director for university communication before being named acting dean of the College of Nursing. Upon her retirement in 1984, she was named vice president emeritus.

Her administrative talent and her contributions to her university and her community were recognized in 1983 with the establishment of the Kathryn T. Schoen Endowment Fund, which provides an annual award to an outstanding female faculty or staff member. That same year she was inducted into the Ohio Women's Hall of Fame.

Ohio State proudly honors this dynamic woman who gave readily of her time and talent when and where it was needed to strengthen her university.

A Message From President Gee

Most of us measure our lives in year-long cycles, beginning in January and ending in December. But those of us in education observe a different calendar—one in which the year-end celebration is a graduation, and the days are counted in quarters or semesters.

For college students, the cycle begins that first autumn when they arrive on campus and advances through classes and exams, vacations and summer jobs, until commencement day finally arrives. And that day comes once four times a year when students from Ohio State graduate to the cheers of proud relatives and friends.

Now, these newly minted alumni will look back briefly and move on, shifting into the day-to-day rhythms of hoped-for employment. They will leave behind late nights filled with cold pizza and hot debate. No more 7:30 in the morning classes, but instead a 7:30 commute to the office. No more papers due for class, but reports due for work. They will trade their backpacks for briefcases, their ball caps for business suits.

There is no doubt that they have been changed by their college experience. Those years spent at a major research university represent not only a growth in knowledge, but a growth in wisdom and common sense—a maturing process that prepares a student for life in the “real world.” And that world does not stand still.

We need only look at the capitals of the world and the corporations of America to realize that powerful forces have been at work. During the time it has taken this most recent crop of graduates to complete their educations, the Soviet Union has come apart, Germany has come together, ethnic warfare has erupted, trade barriers have fallen, and once-mighty businesses have been brought to their knees by economic forces.

Today’s graduates are being launched into a world made smaller by the media and larger by the scope of our global dilemmas: the environment, ethics, illiteracy, racism, sexism, revolution, protest, famine, and poverty.

The world is crying for the compassion and creativity of our graduates. And we need their considerable energy and ingenuity to resolve conflicts, regain civility, and restore our spirits.

That is why, for all of us, graduation is a time that renews our hope in the future. As I preside over Ohio State’s commencement, I am impressed by the intelligence, dedication, and vigor of our new college graduates, young and not so young. And I feel an old, familiar feeling: optimism. Optimism about the actions our industries are taking to regain a competitive edge. Optimism about the adjustments education is making in response to a changing society. And, most of all, optimism about and faith in this new generation that is about to take its place in our society.

Today, as many of them leave school behind, their memories are bittersweet. One of Ohio State’s engineering graduates sent me a letter that, I believe, captures the great joy we share in this special rite of passage and the strength of the educational process. She wrote, “There will be at least one chemical engineer with a tear in her eye as the national anthem is played, a lump in her throat as her college is introduced, a smile on her face as she gets her diploma, and a cry of joy as her father hugs her and says, ‘I am so proud of you!’”

It is a pride in which we can all share. I thank this graduate, and thousands like her, for all they will bring to our society. They are very bright. They work very hard. They have learned to live without security, but they continue to seek it. They are ready not only to cope with change, but to create change. And they have turned away from “me-ism” and are again seeking ways to help their fellow human beings.

I am confident that when this generation assumes leadership, America will be in very good hands.

The Academic Costume

The colorful ceremonies of The Ohio State University Commencements derive from practices originating in the Middle Ages. When European universities were taking form in the 12th and 13th centuries, the scholars were usually clerics, and consequently they adopted costumes similar to those of their monastic orders. Cold halls and drafty buildings called for caps and floor-length capes with attached hoods, and the sobering influence of the church probably influenced the staid character of the caps and gowns.

As the control of the universities gradually passed from the church, some aspects of the costumes took on brighter hues. Old prints and engravings, however, reveal a strong similarity between the regalia worn in early universities and that of the present day.

In the light of our nation's English heritage, academic costume has been in use in the United States since colonial times. To establish a standard of uniformity in regard to the practice, an intercollegiate commission was formed to prepare a code for caps, gowns, and hoods that has since been adopted by all academic institutions.

Originally round, the shape of the cap is now the familiar mortarboard square—a shape which, according to ballad folklore, resembles a scholar's book. Legend also has it that the privilege of wearing a cap was the initial right of a freed Roman slave; the academic cap, therefore, has become a sign of the freedom of scholarship. The flowing gown has become symbolic of the democracy of scholarship, for it covers any dress that might indicate rank or social status. The hood, reserved at The Ohio State University for those receiving doctoral degrees, not only indicates the type of degree, but also is lined with the official colors of the university.

The Gown

Bachelor. Black, full cut with long pointed sleeves.

Master. Black, long or short sleeves with a re-shaped panel extended for each sleeve.

Doctor. Black with velvet panels on front of gown and three velvet bars on each sleeve. Color of the velvet may be black or distinctive of the field of study.

The Hood

Bachelor. Three feet long with a two-inch-wide velvet edging.*

Master. Three and one-half feet long with a three-inch-wide velvet edging.*

Doctor. Four feet in length with a five-inch-wide velvet edging and panel at the sides.

* Not usually worn by candidates for a degree.

The lining of all hoods, which is folded out, bears the official colors of the institution granting the degree. The color of the velvet indicates the field of study:

Dentistry	Lilac
Law	Purple
Medicine	Green
Musical Arts	Pink
Optometry	Sea-foam Green
Pharmacy	Olive Green
Philosophy	Dark Blue
Veterinary Medicine	Gray

Cap and Tassel

Candidates for degrees at The Ohio State University wear the black mortarboard with a tassel whose color is distinctive of the degree being received. The tassel colors are as follows:

Graduate School	Black
Colleges of the Arts and Sciences
College of the Arts (B.A., B.S.I.D.)	White
(Others)	Brown
School of Music (B.A.)	White
(Others)	Pink
College of Biological Sciences	White
College of Humanities	White
College of Mathematical and Physical Sciences	White

The gold tassel is worn frequently by those holding the doctoral degree and by college and university administrative officers.
